Subject: Re: article in Feb 2009 "New Jersey Monthly" about Passaic River

Kirk - I just read the article this AM and I am confused how the author attributed the below quote to me. I did work with the reporter a couple months back, but I don't use words/phrases like "charge", "good debate" "worried what might be dredged up"....I think the reporter attributed someone else's quote to me. Weird.

"EPA's charge is to protect water quality, and we're worried what might be dredged up, so to speak. But there is also the argument about boat access—at the very least clearing silt away from boat ramps. We think that's a good debate because it suggests the river has turned a corner. People want to use it. People want to get back into the Passaic."

Don't read too much into my so-called quotes.
As Yogi Berra (allegedly) put it "I never said all those things I said".
